

GASOLINE CRISIS IS SERIOUS ON THE ATLANTIC SEABOARD; RETAIL DELIVERY OF 15 COMMODITIES ARE NOW BANNED

Under Latest Step in Emergency Program Ban is Effective at Midnight Tomorrow—Retail Deliveries Halted Are For Soft Drinks, Alcoholic Beverages, Ice Cream, Magazines, and Flowers.

By William E. Zimmerman
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 25—(INS)—Extreme seriousness of the gasoline crisis on the Atlantic seaboard was reflected today by an Office of Defense Transportation order banning retail deliveries of 15 commodities and drastically curtailing their wholesale delivery in 13 eastern states and the District of Columbia.

The latest step in the emergency program to save critically short supplies of gasoline, the ban is effective at midnight tomorrow and prohibits entirely retail deliveries of a list of commodities including soft drinks, alcoholic beverages, ice cream, magazines and flowers.

All Sunday deliveries were banned—both wholesale and retail—with the exception of ice, fresh milk and cream, newspapers, certain mine products and explosives, medicines, telegrams and mail.

Delivery of newspapers was not affected by the drastic order. The 40 per cent cut in mileage for commercial trucks, buses and taxis still applies to newspapers, however.

The ODT ordered that the number of retail and wholesale deliveries which may be made in one week from one point of origin to one point of destination is limited according to the commodity delivered. It also ordered immediate rearrangement of delivery routes so that they neither duplicate nor overlap.

The commodities included: Fresh or frozen meat; poultry; eggs; fruits; vegetables; fish and shell fish; live plants for food production; bread and perishable bakery products;

Alcoholic beverages or wines, including malt beverages; soft drinks, manufactured tobacco products, confectionaries;

Fresh milk or cream; ice cream or ices;

Magazines and periodicals; Laundry or dry cleaning; Parts or supplies for repairs; Cut flowers except for funerals; Shrubbery;

Toys, novelties, jewelry, furs, radios, phonographs, antiques. Exemptions include deliveries to farms and ships, and deliveries of newspapers, certain mine products and explosives, medicines, telegrams and the mail.

Emphasis was made that exemptions to the ban, such as Sunday deliveries of newspapers, were only with respect to the number of deliveries permitted and did not grant waiver of the 40 per cent mileage curtailment.

The ODT also announced a scale of deliveries for both wholesale and retail trades, fixing the number of deliveries which may be made each week.

The greatest number of deliveries permitted was for ice for which

START WORK ON TWO BIG PROJECTS IN AREA

Ground Being Cleared For Butadiene Plant At Eddington

DIGGING FOR HOUSES

Work was started yesterday on two projects in this area which will involve a big expenditure of money. One project is an industrial plant at Eddington, while the second one is the housing project at Beaver Dam Road and Magnolia Road, Bristol Township.

Stone and Webster, contractors, yesterday started a gang of men clearing away the bushes and growth to prepare the site for excavating on which is to be built a plant for Butadiene Company. The plant is to be used for the manufacture of butadiene to be used in the manufacture of synthetic rubber.

Men on the ground at Eddington could not give any idea as to the size of the plant nor the material of which it is to be constructed. "Detailed plans have not as yet arrived from Boston," it was stated. "All that we do is to clear the ground and get ready for making excavations."

At Beaver Dam Road and Magnolia Road the Arthur Venerri Co., Inc., Elizabeth, N. J., started to excavate yesterday.

The contractors have erected a temporary office and grading and excavating machinery is on the ground. On this site there are to be erected housing for 469 families of war workers.

Hunter Employees Give $870 To Salvation Army

An announcement by H. G. Fromm, co-chairman of the Bristol drive for funds for the Salvation Army, has announced that Hunter Manufacturing Company employees have contributed $870.80 to the drive. "This is the largest single contribution from any group of workers in this area," stated Mr. Fromm.

Employees of Plant 3 at Emille contributed $564.55; Plant 1 at Croyston, $175.50; and Plant 2, at Bristol, $127.75.

Bristol Woman Remains In Hospital; Hurt in Wreck

Mrs. Clara Mount, 240 Roosevelt street, will remain in the Cooper Hospital, Camden, N. J., for a time, it was stated by relatives today. Mrs. Mount, along with her husband, Reuben, and daughter Shirley, were injured in the wreck of the Pennsylvania-Reading Seashore Lines which occurred Sunday night at Delair, N. J., outside of Camden.

Both Mr. Mount and his daughter returned home early yesterday morning after being treated for their injuries.

It is stated that Mrs. Mount's ankle, which was injured, is now in a cast. Just when she will be released from the hospital was not stated by the hospital authorities.

MEN WHO STOLE WHISKY GIVEN TERMS IN JAIL

Both Are Sentenced To Serve Two to 23 Months In County Prison

OTHER COURT CASES

DOYLESTOWN, May 25—Leo Kasperzak, 33, employed by a Philadelphia trucker, and William K. Kelly, 32, shipping clerk at the Wilson Whiskey Distillery at Bristol, until he was discharged, pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge Keller to a charge of stealing 15 cases of whiskey valued at $309.45, from the Bristol plant. All of the whiskey was recovered when Kasperzak changed his mind and told his mother that he had stolen it, and his mother persuaded him to return it.

Chief of Police Linford J. Jones of Bristol, read the confessions of the defendants in court. Kasperzak said that he asked Kelly for a "sample" and that Kelly told him he could not give him a sample but that he could probably get him a couple of cases.

Kelly said that he loaded 15 stolen cases on Kasperzak's truck and that the latter then started for Philadelphia. The proposition was that he (Kelly) was to get 10 cases and Kasperzak five.

Kasperzak said that when he got to Philadelphia and told his mother about it, he decided to inform his boss what he had done and return the whiskey. Kelly testified that the reason he made the proposition he had a chance to make some money, which he needed to pay some doctor bills.

Judge Keller sentenced the two defendants to two to 23 months in the Bucks County Prison.

Edward O. Weissner, 44, of Siles, pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge Keller to a charge of assault and battery alleged to have been committed on Dr. Harry C. Terry, at the office of Justice of the Peace Alvan Tomlinson, near Newtown, on April 27, when Weissner went to

Aged Man Collapses When Fire Is Discovered

Egidio Nonini, an aged man of Magnolia Road, collapsed yesterday afternoon when fire was discovered in a building used as a garage and for storage on his property.

The building was located near the house and also close to a barn and a drum in which was stored kerosene.

The flames' origin have not been determined but they had good headway when the firemen arrived. The fire was so hot that the interior of the barn nearly had begun to smolder.

Bristol Consolidated, America Hose, Hook & Ladder Co., No. 2, and Goodwill firemen responded to the call.

Nonini collapsed in the yard and had to be assisted by those at the scene. He finally was able to be moved into the house.

MESSAGES RECEIVED FROM LIEUT. DOWNING

Wife and Parents Encouraged by Letters from Prisoner in Germany

"IN GOOD HEALTH"

SOUTH LANGHORNE, May 25—Heartening letters have been received by relatives of 1st Lt. Joseph A. Downing, Jr., who for the past three months has been a prisoner of war in German-held territory.

Letters written by Downing and other messages have been received by his wife, Gretchen Downing, in Philadelphia; and by his parents, Burgess and Mrs. Joseph A. Downing, Sr., Durham Road.

First inkling that Downing was actually alive after having been reported missing some weeks previous, was received on March 27th when his name was mentioned in short-wave broadcasts from Berlin, Germany, among the names of many prisoners of war.

Downing, 28 years of age, was

BADENHAUSEN MEN GO OUT ON STRIKE

Big Boiler Plant at Eddington Tied Up by Work Stoppage

WILL CONFER TODAY

A hearing is being held in Philadelphia today before a Federal Government Conciliator to adjust the grievances existing between the Badenhause Corporation, of Eddington, and Local 2954, United Steel Workers of America (CIO affiliate).

The Badenhause employees walked out yesterday morning at about 8:30 when it was contended by them that their grievances had not been adjusted.

Between 300 and 350 men are affected and the strikers contend that the employees gave them 100 per cent co-operation.

The Badenhause Corporation has greatly expanded during the past two or three years. It is said to be the third largest boiler making plant in the country and is engaged in making lend-lease material for the U. S. Government.

No Union representatives could be contacted last night, who would definitely state the cause of the work stoppage.

A spokesman for the Badenhause firm could not be contacted today.

Lister's Condition Is Unchanged at Hospital

Condition of Joseph Lister, 21, of West Bristol, is unchanged, according to authorities at Harriman Hospital where he has been a patient since midnight of May 19th. No improvement is noted in the young man who spent another restless night on his hospital bed, it is said.

Lister was wounded in the lower part of the abdomen when a 12-gauge shot-gun was fired by Walter Rice, 49, of Croyston, who objected to Lister's attention to Isabella Rice, 15-year-old adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rice. Lister was found outside the girl's bedroom window last Wednesday midnight, according to Rice.

Nelson Feelily Injured When Hit By Automobile

TULLYTOWN, May 25—Nelson Feelily, of this borough, was slightly hurt on Saturday when struck by a car owned and operated by Roy Bucher, Coryville. The accident occurred here.

Feelily was taken to Harriman Hospital, Bristol, where X-ray pictures were taken. He sustained abrasions of the head and right ankle. Pennsylvania State Police of South Langhorne barracks investigated.

PRICE PANEL NAMED FOR THE RATIONING BOARD OF BRISTOL

Assumes Duties To Make Wartime Price Controls Operate in This Section

THREE ARE ON PANEL

Will Check Ceiling Prices And Also The Selling Prices

Announcement has been made by R. F. Ashenfelter, District Manager of the Philadelphia District Office of Price Administration, of the appointment of the following members to serve on the newly formed price panel of the Bristol War Price and Rationing Board:

J. L. Kilcoyne, chairman; Mrs. Helen G. Spindler, and Mrs. R. E. Parish.

With the formation of the price panel, the Board assumes a new wartime job designed to make wartime price controls operate successfully in the Bristol area. With dollars-and-cents ceiling prices rapidly replacing other pricing methods, especially in the food field, the price panel will see that full information concerning these new schedules is available to both retailers and consumers.

Like all other members of the War Price and Rationing Board, members of the price panel serve without compensation, and represent a cross-section of the community in which they live, and which they serve.

"War Price and Rationing Boards have been called 'committees of neighbors,'" said Mr. Ashenfelter. "The Boards have worked faithfully to see that rationing is administered fairly among the citizens of their neighborhood. Now the Boards, through the price panels, take on another wartime obligation. They will assist retailers to understand and comply with price regulations; receive and investigate complaints of price violations from consumers and try to settle them on a friendly basis."

Among the duties of the price panel will be the distribution of materials to retailers, checking to see that ceiling prices are posted as required, and that selling prices do not exceed legal ceilings; receiving complaints of over-charges from consumers, investigating such complaints and acting as friendly mediators in cases of reported violations.

To aid the price panel in the performance of its duties, the panel will have a group of price panel assistants.

Darrah Says He Took Coal But Did Not Steal

DOYLESTOWN, May 25—Roselle Darrah, colored, of Market street, Bristol, was sentenced last yesterday by Judge Calvin S. Boyer to serve from 30 days to 23 months in the Bucks County prison.

Darrah was convicted of charges of larceny and receiving stolen goods. It was charged in court that Darrah had stolen 100 pounds of coal from Montgomery Fuel Co., Bristol.

On the stand Darrah denied stealing coal, claiming he had been a customer of the Montgomery Co., and merely took the coal, planning to pay for it the following day. Police stated they caught him in the act.

FUNERAL OF MR. PAGE

WAR WORKER REWARD

How individuals are being rewarded for ideas aiding the war production program is illustrated in the case of Daniel Bemiller, 62, a grandfather employed in the Westinghouse plant at Mansfield, Ohio. His boss, C. L. Van Deraue, reports that he designed a tool that eliminated a drilling operation that previously required 9,300 hours of work a year, thus freeing workmen for other tasks.

"Mr. Bemiller devised a special reamer to shape the inside of a pointed cap that fits over the nose of anti-tank shot," Mr. Van Deraue explains. "Formerly we had to use both a reamer and a drill to do the job."

The veteran tool maker also figured out a way to utilize worn cutting tools used in making armor-piercing shot. He designed an adjustable bushing which makes use of cutters that become shorter than their original length when reground.

For these two suggestions, Mr. Bemiller received a check from Westinghouse for $649, representing 10 per cent of the annual savings resulting from his ideas. He also was given a special citation by the Labor-Management Committee at the Westinghouse plant and his name was sent to Washington as a candidate for a "Production Soldier" medal from the War Production Board.

A tool maker for 40 years, Mr. Bemiller was born in Butler, Ohio, and has been working since he finished the eighth grade in school. Several years ago he designed a blower that removes sawdust from sawmills.

NOT ENOUGH FLAGS

It is strange but true that the American flag is being carried to so many parts of the world today that there is actually a shortage of American flags at home.

One would think that the mass production of American flags would have insured against a scarcity. As every schoolboy knows, flags are not manufactured today in the same manner that they were in the time of Betsy Ross. Now mechanical knives slice through fabric pulled a foot deep and other machines use five-pointed dies to punch out 100 stars at a clip.

The Wall Street Journal explains that manufacturers are having trouble in keeping production up to last year's peak because "many of the men who make the flags are leaving to fight under them." Furthermore, some of the workers are leaving for other industries and there are shortages of certain materials, such as dye stuffs. One of the leading flag makers says he is seven months behind on orders.

There is not likely to be rationing of American flags among civilians, so any person who desires a new banner but cannot obtain one will have to be content with the thought that it is more necessary that the armed services have them.

It may be true that the Spitfires are making monkeys out of the Japs, but nature had something to do with giving the Japs a good start in that direction.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

To take away from the army its authority over munition production contracts was wrong.

THE ONLY justification of the latter would have been failure of the army to measure up. If it had bogged down on the job, then insistence upon a change would have had weight behind it. But the WPB effort failed because of overwhelming evidence that in the matter of munitions and supplies the army had an outstanding record and was far better equipped by knowledge and experience for this particular service than the civilian heads who proposed to take it over. In a larger way, the same reasoning applies to the movement to compel modification of the Roosevelt-Churchill military strategy. If in this field, under these leaders, our arms had suffered reverses and mistakes had been made, there would, indeed, be merit in the arguments for a change. But, in face of the brilliant success of the African campaign with its great potentialities for European invasion and also the easing of transportation difficulties to the East, certainly no failure can be charged.

ON THE CONTRARY, the results have been such as to strengthen confidence in both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill as military strategists. Under these conditions, they are entitled to full support. Under these conditions, their judgment should be accepted. This is not to say that Senators and others have no right to question military policies as well as any other. It does not mean that they must follow blindly had military leaders. It does mean that so long as these leaders are successful there exists every reason for support, none for heckling or holding back. If those who are arguing that the strategy be switched so as to make the crushing of Japan our first objective were in possession of either facts or arguments which Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill lack or have not heard, there would be substance and force to their contentions.

BUT SUCH, clearly, is not the case. All the facts and all the arguments have been considered by the two heads of state and their military chiefs. Certainly, better informed than the critics of their policies, they made their decision and are to be congratulated on not weakening. To weaken now under pressure would be demoralizing. It would diminish confidence in the firmness of their character and the soundness of their judgment. And to ask them to alter their course in the field where their record is not only good but great is to ask the absurd. The Prime Minister's explanations and pledges coupled with evidence that so far from neglecting that side of the war, help is going to China and the South Pacific in steadily increasing quantities, should bring this disturbing agitation to an end. Perhaps, it has served a good purpose in developing the facts, but it will not serve a good purpose if, in the absence of any evidence of military

THE MILITARY situation, of course, is in strong contrast to that on the home front. The Roosevelt record on domestic affairs is as poor as his record in military affairs is good. The mistakes at home are too many and too grievous to be denied or ignored. After eighteen months of war we still have no financial policy, no labor policy, no inflation policy, no food policy and no manpower policy worthy of the name. Conditions in Washington are in an admitted mess. Administration criticism and attack for failure in these fields is not only justified. It is demanded by the national interests and the war effort. But it is very different in the matter of military strategy. There, on his record, the President is entitled to support and trust.

And, if subordinate army and navy officers are covertly inspiring the criticism, they should be disciplined.

"I never forget myself! What a conceited, egotistic I've been!"

"We've all been fools, bent on pleasure—and this is where it landed us!" Julia said sadly.

"I swear I'll go on the wagon forever, if only . . . Julia, I swear to God I will!"

"Unfortunately you can't make bargains like that with God," Julia said severely. "All we can do is pray for her, Vince."

"I have. I'm doing it now."

"Don't fret so. Are you still in pain?"

"Yes. And serves me right. I wish I could take on hers, too!" And he put his bandaged hands to his white face, and broke into a storm of weeping.

Julia left the room and returned with a sedative. "Here, drink this down."

She put the glass to his shaking lips. He obediently gulped its contents.

"Rest assured that everything that medical science can do to save her is being done," Julia said. Her own lips were trembling as she spoke the words to the man who loved her sister.

"She was so beautiful, Julia! The loveliest girl I've ever seen!"

Achingly, she was conscious that he spoke in the past tense.

"Don't think of that now. Pray for her recovery."

"I'll get the finest plastic surgeons in the world."

"Hush, Vince. But I know you'll do everything. You're so generous," she added, remembering they had no one back of them—financially.

"When I think of poor Marie—as she was—I he broke off.

Shocked, Julia realized that he was speaking of the unfortunate showgirl who had been in that motor smash with him . . . the girl with whom Vince had once thought himself in love . . . and discarded (with handsome monetary settlement) when her beauty had been lost from the crash!

For the moment, she hated Vince. He saw the revulsion in her eyes.

He said quickly: "Of course I'll go through with it, no matter if Ann's beauty—"

"I won't listen to such talk at a time like this!" Julia cried.

"I'm sorry," He broke down again.

She patted his shoulder. With his injuries, he was suffering from shock as well. And a man in pain wasn't entirely responsible for his quirks of the mind, she knew.

"It's all right, Vince. I know you mean well. Here, lie down on the sofa, and I'll cover you up, and maybe you'll get a little sleep now!" she said soothingly.

Vince was as docile as a child. She sat with him until she saw that he really had fallen asleep.

Then she returned to watch anxiously by Ann.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Gailey)

Pastor

O God and Father of all mankind, we are grateful unto thee for the increased sense of spiritual values which is evident in the world today. We thank thee that in the service camps there are thousands of young men acknowledging their own insufficiency and turning to Christ for salvation; that in thousands of churches throughout our land there is in evidence an increased interest in the work of the Church and the success of its testimony. Bless thy people, O God, and, in this day of uncertainty convict them of the truth of the Gospel, which contains alone the abiding truth of the ages. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

pilot of a Flying Fortress, was reported missing following a raid over German-held territory on February 16th. He was one of the Americans who took part in the first raid made by American bombers on original German territory on January 27th, Wilhelmshaven being the target.

In letters to his wife and parents Lt. Downing states he is "in good health and good spirits" and is being treated according to his rank. He added that he has warm clothing, and a good bed. A request was made for a sweat-shirt, heavy underwear and chocolate. The elder Mr. Downing states that the shipments permitted to the young man will be 11 pounds every two months.

A letter received from a Chaplain Poletti, now in England, by Lt. Downing's wife informed of information gained by the chaplain from Lt. Kelly, Downing's co-pilot on the last raiding foray. The word from Kelly was that forced to bail out over German territory Downing and Kelly, pilot and co-pilot, according to custom were the last two to leave the plane. "As we started floating down we waved 'good luck' to each other. That was the last I saw of Downing, but I felt assured he had reached the ground safely. The wind drift took him in another direction."

Kelly landed safely and in some friendly, not yet divulged, reached friendly territory and returned to England. There he told his experience, and Chaplain Poletti passed the news on to Downing's relatives in this country. It is the thought of Burgess Downing that Kelly possibly felt into the hands of friendly Frenchmen who saw that he reached England. Kelly, at the time he talked with the chaplain, did not know that Downing had been taken prisoner, and it was sometime later that the chaplain learned of this phase.

From a Lt. Crouch who took part in the Feb. 16th raid, also came a message to the Downing family. This was to the effect that he noticed that two of the engines on the plane piloted by Downing were hit. "He (Downing) then disappeared in a cloud, but I think he was able to land." Lt. Crouch apparently knew nothing of the fact that Downing's crew later bailed out, and that the pilot had been taken prisoner.

Burgess Downing states that Lt. Kelly is now enroute to the United States, planning to visit at his home near Pittsburgh. The Downings hope to be able to talk with Lt. Kelly during his visit to this country.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Wags!

No quadruped of the K9 contingent used by the Marines, the Army or the Coast Guard is purchased. They're strictly volunteers for the duration, loaned by their masters and mistresses. These dogs are taught to hear and smell and see enemies where humans cannot. They are invaluable at night.

Several K9 training stations are maintained by various branches of our fighting services.

You may not have a dog to send to war but you can send your money. Buy War Bonds.

GRAND THEATRE

When it comes to putting over songs, Alice Faye is tops! The lovely blonde star adds to her parable style a number of ballads, laurels by singing in her incomparable and new, in "Hello, Frisco, Hello."

In her first picture in over a year, now at the Grand Theatre, the honey-haired songstress sings one number in particular which, thanks to her knack of "selling" a song, is destined to be a hit tune — "You'll Never Know." The number was written especially for Alice by Mack Gordon and Harry Warren, outstanding Hollywood team of song writers.

BRISTOL THEATRE

"Something to Shout About," star-glittering new Gregory Ratoff musical with Don Ameche, Janet Blair and Jack Oakie, ends its tune-filled engagement today at the Bristol.

William Gaxton, Cobina Wright, Jr., and Hazel Scott, three of Broadway's most popular entertainers, are featured in the film. Cole Porter penned the hummable music, including such hit tunes as "Something to Shout About," and "You'd Be So Nice to Come Home To."

RITZ THEATRE

The wild days of the old South-west, when Wyatt Earp, famous frontier marshal and gun-fighter, was out to tame every bad man in the territory with fists and six-shooter, will blaze into life on the screen of the Ritz Theatre tonight, when "Tombstone—the Town Too Tough to Die," is presented.

If it's thrills and mystery you're after, then "I Live On Danger," now at the Ritz Theatre, is your picture.

DIAMOND TEAM BLANKS VOLTZ IX; GAME ENDS 5 TO 0

Assortment of Slow and Fast Balls Too Much For Gasoline Men

HIRST GIVES 3 HITS

Pitcher Experienced Some Difficulty in First and Last Innings

With an assortment of fast and slow balls, Dick Hirst pitched the Diamond team to a shutout victory over Voltz-Texaco last evening on the Rohm & Haas field. It was the third straight win for the Diamond boys and the third loss in a row for Voltz. Final score was: Diamond, 5; Voltz-Texaco, 0.

Hirst allowed the gasoleers but three hits which he kept well-scattered. He was in difficulty in the first and last innings when Voltz had two men on base on each occasion, but also managed to get the third man out without a runner crossing the plate.

"Loggie" Bragg was the losing hurler. He did a good job on the hill in allowing the victors five hits, but his backing wasn't so good and his receiving mate, Dick Stratton, was playing with an injured hand and could not get his throws to second base.

Norman Tettemer, who leaves for the army today, was the only player in the tilt to collect more than one hit. Norm was at bat three times and connected for a pair of safeties. He also scored a run.

The Diamond outfit countered with a pair of markers in the first frame. Tettemer singled and was sacrificed to second. He moved to third on a passed ball and scored when Bauroth grounded to short. The play was at the plate, giving Bauroth first base. When Stratton dropped the ball at the plate, Bauroth moved to second. Pappatera hit a high fly to Grimes who dropped it to allow Bauroth to cross. Pfaffenrath struck out.

In the second inning, Morgan singled and stole second and scored on Tettemer's hit to left. Two more were pushed over in the third. Doster walked and Bauroth singled. DeRisi struck out, but Pappatera singled to right to score Doster, and sending Bauroth to third. Bauroth and Pappatera worked the double-steal with Bauroth scoring and Pappatera going to third on Stratton's low throw to second. Roth Pfaffenrath and Hirst struck out.

what extent a car could be used for the continuing of sports for the duration.

Because of the "pleasure" driving ban, players will experience difficulty in reaching the Rohm & Haas field, especially those players who reside out of town.

When an official decision is given, the officials will hold a meeting to decide whether or not to continue the loop. If the league continues, it will start where it left off and not drop the games that have been played thus far.

Harry Wimmer Instantly Killed In a Motor Crash

Roads, and striking a concrete culvert. Wimmer's death is said to have been caused by a fracture of the skull. Rigdon was taken to Elm Terrace Hospital, Lansdale, where his condition is said to be serious. He has scalp lacerations, fractures of several ribs, and both legs are injured. He also suffered from shock.

The investigating officer is Pvt. Harris of Doylestown sub-station, Pennsylvania State Police. Dr. H. Clayton Moyer, Bucks County coroner, issued a certificate of death in the Wimmer case.

Rigdon will be held on a charge of involuntary manslaughter, it is stated.

Wimmer, who formerly conducted a sweets shop at Perkasio, moved some time ago to the farm of the late Byron Crouthamel. His wife, Katie, and three sons, Stanley, Alfred and Walter, survive.

lar charges here and in North Carolina, was sentenced to pay the costs and serve one and one-half to three years in the Bucks County Prison. Judge Boyer refused to take the suggestion of the Negro's attorney that he be placed on a long period of probation because he is badly needed as a farm worker.

"Nelson is extremely dangerous because of his drinking habits," Judge Boyer remarked, "and it is not safe to release him."

Otto Blavier's experience on the night of February 7th cost him $250 fine and costs and a suspended prison sentence of 2 to 12 months, and his loss of a driver's license for a year.

Blavier, a resident of Warrington, 47 years old, is a supervisor at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. He pleaded guilty to driving while drunk in Doylestown Borough when he was arrested at the corner of Main and Ashland streets.

Witnesses testified that Blavier ran through a red light, had no lights on his car, and collided with a passenger bus that was forced over to the side of the street, causing it to collide with another passenger bus.

One of the bus drivers testified that he talked with the defendant after the accident and that he was so drunk that he did not know that he had hit a bus.

Patrolman Clifford Beck of the Doylestown police testified that Blavier told him he had been drinking at a local club where he belonged as a social member.

"Don't you think it would be better for you to spend your money on your own family than as a social member of a club?" Judge Keller asked Blavier. "I think you can do without that club membership," the Court added. Judge Keller directed that Blavier pay all expenses in connection with the repair of the damaged passenger buses and that he surrender his driver's license for a year.

We were willing and able to take TOUGH JOBS

NEARLY EVERYBODY seems to know that the Chrysler Corporation makes Army tanks and that those tanks give a good account of themselves in battle, throughout the world.

For well over a year these big fighting machines have been produced in ever increasing quantities, but they are, after all, only a part of the total war production of this corporation.

That total war production includes twenty-one distinctly military products, for the use of our armed services and for the protection of civilian populations.

For the soldier we not only make tanks in which he engages the enemy in battle; we also make the trucks and combat vehicles which haul him and his equipment about. We make the stoves that heat his tents and barracks and the field kitchens on which his meals are cooked. We make refrigeration units which preserve his food in camp and in the field. We make the ammunition to defend him and the guns and cannon with which to shoot the ammunition.

For the Air Service we make bomber fuselages for the Army, and major bomber sections for the Navy. We make landing gear for planes. In Chicago we are just completing a very large plant to make big airplane engines for long range bombers. We make the bomb racks to carry the bomb loads of the planes. We are making thousands upon thousands of Duralumin forgings and castings for all types of aircraft purposes.

For the Navy we are making vital parts of searchlights that the Navy uses to spot its targets. We are making the gyroscopic compasses that steer the ships of the Navy and Merchant Marine. We make pontoons for lighterage and for the raising of ships that have been sunk. We make both pusher and puller types of tugs which are used all over the world from Iceland to Guadalcanal, on the rivers of South America, India and Russia. We make thousands of marine engines for many purposes—some of them for commando boats and things of that nature.

When we saw the war coming we knew that it would be a mechanical war and that no concern the size of the Chrysler Corporation would remain out of the picture.

We felt that institutions like ours should hold themselves free and in readiness to take tough jobs—those things that require intense cooperation on the part of scientists, metallurgists, engineers; the volume jobs that require intimate knowledge of the tooling and mechanical processes necessary to make duplicate equipment in large volume.

Today finds us employing over eight thousand subcontractors. Fifty-eight cents of every dollar we receive for our war effort is passed on to somebody else who supplies us services, materials or parts. We are not only prime contractors ourselves, but we are also subcontractors for a number of other companies, ranging from such concerns as General Electric and Westinghouse, employ-
